

SAUNTERINGS
From Where The West Begins.

For The Sea Coast Echo.

TOMORROW, November 11th, is Armistice Day. Fifteen years have passed since the first hysterical Armistice Day back in 1918. Time has probably erased some of the horror from the minds of many World's War Veterans who were fortunate enough to return home sound of limb and body. These will proudly march behind stirring bands in honor of the day.

Along the line of march a minute of silent tribute will be paid to the heroes who sacrificed their lives on the battlefields of France. Deep in the hearts of the mothers of these comrades now sleeping in Flanders' fields, that bloody war is everlasting—there can be no armistice.

In U. S. Veterans' hospitals throughout the country, the fiendish results of brutal warfare still holds helpless victims within its iron clasp. . . . leering at mankind's hypercritical boasts of civilization and culture. Let us celebrate the day as a symbol of peace and pray that the rumbles of war heard in the distance may never again darken the face of the earth.

BEGINNING Armistice Day and lasting until Thanksgiving Day, the annual membership roll call drive of the Red Cross will be conducted. This prize-winning humanitarian organization needs no introduction. Its deeds of aid and mercy follow in the wake of every local or national catastrophe. Should the unseen hand of disaster strike at your community tonight, local Red Cross workers would have relief and first-aid stations established before dawn.

Prove your interest in the welfare of less fortunate fellowmen. Support the Red Cross. It needs your help to aid those in distress. Join now!

TEXAS Guinan, famous night club queen, has received her last curtain call after a long and hectic public career. She died last Sunday following an operation at a hospital in Vancouver, B. C. The glamorous Tex was cracked those about her even as the black angel fluttered near. Perhaps she even muttered, "Hello Sucker," as the curtain rung silently down. She was born on a large ranch near Waco, Texas.

It doesn't matter if Texas Guinan drew an upper or lower ticket for the next Big Show. . . . she's sure to go in a big way—Let's give the little girl a big hand.

BREAD prices have increased two cents a loaf in San Antonio. Price of the regular one-pound loaf was hiked from 7 to 9 cents a loaf. Pullman loaves are selling at 12 cents under the new prices. Said an irate housewife, "These bakers certainly have a 'crust.' Just because they see bread rise in the oven is no reason for the price to rise." Bakers claim increased taxes and operating costs have made the increase necessary.

THE geographical center of Texas as given by the United States Census report is located 20 miles north east of Brady, in McCulloch county. Brady is approximately 150 miles north west of San Antonio.

Texas is the largest state in the union; total area 265,896 square miles. There are 254 counties in the Lone Star State. California ranks next in size with an area of 158,297 miles. Montana is third having 146,997 miles, Rhode Island is the smallest state possessing 1,248 miles. Total area of the District of Columbia is 70 miles.

A PUBLIC enemy pest is at large in the city. In place of gangsters it is a stubby, tan-colored caterpillar known as Italian asp. The insects have suddenly become numerous. They inflict a sting that produces excruciating pain, a general sickening feeling, and swelling of the stung part. The sting is not fatal. However, many victims have resorted to physicians and hospitals for treatment. The Italian asp is an unwelcome visitor—not a native insect.

BY the time this reaches print, repeal of the 18th amendment will be definitely decided upon. Voters of 6 states will have voiced their wishes in this important national issue. Only 3 more states are required at this time to end the 'noble experiment'—prohibition. Looks like the good old U. S. A. will have legal spirits in the Christmas egg nog this year.

This column received a clever and practical cigarette lighter from the World's Fair—a gift sent by a dear friend as a remembrance. Wonder how he knew I was forever minus matches to touch off the occasional "fag." Spect Walter Winchell has been tattling again. Many thanks, the kind thought is deeply appreciated.

A Few Chinese proverbs that prove inspirational. We pass them along.

With course food to eat, water to drink, and the bedded arm as a pillow happiness may still exist.

ABOUT 98 parents responded to the teachers and pupils invitation to visit classes and exercises planned for Parents' Day at the Kiln, Friday, November 3.

Lunch was served to about 200 people.

There were two interesting programs given by pupils in the lower grades, one in the morning by the fourth grade and the other in the evening by the Primary department, directed by Miss Todd. Mr. Ray gave a very interesting talk on the World Fair in the morning.

Souvenirs were given the parents by the vocational departments.

A very exciting football game in which Kiln played Savannah, climax of the day. After the game supper was served to the football players of both teams.

Members of the faculty were glad to have so many parents out for the day and feel that both parents and pupils profited by it.

Kiln Loses To Savannah.

Savannah scored in the first few minutes of play. Saucier kicked off to Cammack who had to go back to get the high kick and in doing so fumbled and recovered on the 25 yard line. On the next play, Garriaga fumbled and Smith recovered for Savannah. A few line plays netted first down on the Kiln 13 yard line, where a pass was completed over the goal line. The try for extra point failed in an attempt to placekick. The other touchdown was scored in the closing part of the first half on a forward pass.

Kiln came back strong in the second half playing good ball, but was unable to score. For Kiln Garriaga led on the offense while Ladner and Peterson played well on offense. For Savannah, Saucier and Smith stand out playing well on defense and offense.

STATE COMMANDER VISITS LOCAL POST AND AUXILIARY

Distinguished Heads While On Tour Visit Bay St. And Hancock County.

On Wednesday of last week the local American Legion Post and Auxiliary were honored with a visit from State Commander Short, Vice State Commander Henry O'Dom and State Adjutant Morrow and Mrs. Cool Day, the Auxiliary State president.

This distinguished party visited Bay St. Louis officially on a tour of the State. The meeting and reception was held at Hotel Weston and a number of inspiring addresses were delivered.

A feature of the gathering was the outlining of a program for the forthcoming year. There was a thorough manifestation of that spirit which builds and carries on and the local legionnaires and members of the Auxiliary were quick to catch the spirit, added to their already splendid morale.

Both the official session and informal reception that followed were of inestimable value and pleasure, and regret was expressed that the visitors could not linger and remain for a longer period.

BURLESQUE CIRCUS TO TOWN, 18-19

Monster Two-Evening Benefit For This Month at Convent Gym.

There are innumerable forms of benefit entertainments that have been presented in Bay St. Louis for various causes and on different occasions, but none will prove more singularly original and popular than the burlesque circus, at St. Joseph Academy gym on the evenings of Saturday and Sunday, November 18-19.

A circus coming to town has always been a signal for joyous anticipation and pleasurable realization, and the advent of the burlesque circus will be no exception. On the contrary, it will be the occasion of much speculation, and it seems far-seeing that two evenings were selected for showing. In this wise there will be ample room to accommodate the "circus crowds."

The circus of latter years with their lavish 3-ring performances have not proven popular. The reason is obvious. No one can view the show of three rings at one time. Old timers still remember with fond recollection and satisfaction the one-ring circus. It was well-nigh an institution. When one could concentrate all attention and focus sight to one place as it were, rather than in bewildering attempts to view three separate shows. No one ever succeeded in so attempting.

It is for this reason management of the big burlesque circus has resolved on one ring. Yes, a veritable circus ring, with sawdust "and everything." And five clowns. Be sure to count 'em.

And the animals! Oh, boy! There will be the famous elephant, giraffe, seals, ponies, monkeys, and animals galore. Don't fail to see the elephant. He eats peanuts by the peck.

And since no circus is far complete unless there is a row of side shows this circus will not be the exception, in this particular instance, at least. This is one feature receiving particular attention for the reason the public demands side shows with their circus. None is complete otherwise only a small fee of admission will be charged for each show. To see one will mean an indefinite longing to see all. At depression prices none can afford to miss many.

The writer as yet has not seen the full program. For the logical reason it is not complete. But safe to surmise it will include the fat lady, the bearded woman, the fattest man in the world, the shortest; the sword swallower the fire eaters, the living skeleton, the dancers on broken glass, the two-headed lady as well, as an extra attraction, the Siamese Twins, no less than the Siltton Sisters the snake charmer as the man who eats 'em alive! And so down a long category including the Streets of Paris; freaks, frights and fixtures. Barnum & Bailey, Sells, Forepaugh and Flotow. Ringling Brothers would need quite a little to complete a greater aggregation of circus attractions. Glamorous, Gorgeous, Extravagant, Bombastic, Realistic, Artistic; Novel, Amazing, Hair-Raising, Counterfeit, Artificial, fictitious!

Don't miss it!

OBSERVE COL. ROOSEVELT'S BIRTHDAY.

Tornado Is Most Frequent Disaster; Causes Heavy Loss of Lives

What type of disaster occurs most frequently in the United States? This question is answered from the relief annals of the American Red Cross which show over a period of years that the tornado, or cyclone as it is called in some sections, is the most frequent and claims a heavy toll of life. It swoops almost without warning, and in the terrific whirlpool of its fierce winds it destroys all in its path.

The Red Cross gave relief in 44 tornadoes in eighteen states last year. The tornadoes killed 326 persons, injured 2,755 and the Red Cross gave aid to 21,733 who were homeless, injured, or otherwise victims of the storms.

ADDITIONAL CITY ECHOES.

—A delightful party from New Orleans visiting Bay St. Louis for a week-end was composed of Norman DeBen, Dr. Clyde Cresson, Dr. and Mrs. T. E. Clements. They were house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert DeBen at their home on South Beach Boulevard.

—The Echo has received a copy of the Bay Hi School semi-monthly paper, "The Student Prints," of Nov. 3rd date, creditably gotten up from many angles and reflecting the spirit of the school, faculty and publication staff.

—Mrs. Joseph R. Scharff and young son returned home Sunday night from Memphis, Tenn., where they spent a while, following a visit to Chicago by Mrs. Scharff. Mr. Scharff went down to the Crescent City to meet his family at the train.

—Mrs. and Mrs. Paul V. Jaubert, who motor frequently to Bay St. Louis from their home at Lafayette, La., to spend the week end visiting at the home of Mrs. Jaubert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Green, and family, came out last Saturday, traveling over a new route omitting New Orleans.

—Mr. John D. Grace, accompanied by his daughters, Mrs. Henry Lee Cooley and Miss Virginia Grace, and son, Harold Grace, spent the week-end at Grace Villa Waveland beach, and motored back to their home in New Orleans Sunday evening. Mrs. Cooley, before her marriage, was Miss Evelyn Grace.

—Dr. D. C. Williams well-known and prominent resident of New Orleans, spent Saturday in Bay St. Louis on business and pleasure trip combined. Dr. Williams an ardent admirer and booster of this section of the Mississippi Gulf Coast and owns one of the more attractive beach properties, located below Cedar Point.

While here Dr. Williams was the guest of friends and spent a most enjoyable day.

—Dr. A. B. Eldridge, father of Mrs. W. J. Gex, Jr., who has been painfully ill at New Orleans with an infected hand, is reported considerably better and on the high road to recovery. Dr. Eldridge contracted his ailment following a surgical operation which he performed. He resides at Abbeville, La., and is a frequent visitor to Bay St. Louis. The news of his recovery will be hailed with much satisfaction.

—The former frame dwelling of Mrs. P. Gaspard and Miss G. Ames, adjoining the east end of A. & G. Theater has been taken down and the lot to be cleared, thus removing a fire hazard for the theater and giving more room and a better clearing to the neighborhood. Since the ladies are having a new home built on the corner Beach and de Montulzin avenues, they will have no need of this dwelling building. For the present they are residing with their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Zerr, State street.

—It appears from all indications and reports that the burlesque circus, to be presented at the Convent Gym on the evenings of Saturday and Sunday, November 18 and 19th, will prove both appealing and successful. A hearty and general response is accorded the efforts of the number who are working indefatigably towards making the circus a success. There will be a regular circus ring, sawdust, clowns, side shows and a zoo, not forgetting all the trimmings that go with a circus—popcorn, peanuts, pink lemonade, etc.

Benefit For City School First Aid Room Numerously Patronized

Benefit card party given Tuesday night at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. Seal, North Beach Boulevard, with Mrs. Alvah P. Smith and Mrs. Seal as co-hostesses, was not only numerously attended but proved a success in excess of expectation.

There were twelve tables of players of bridge, some enjoying "auction" while others engaged in the game of "contract."

An elegant and good-looking cake was the entrance prize, and to Mrs. ate Conner, residing in Union street, went the lucky number.

The winners at cards for the evening were Mrs. Sarah A. Power, Mr. Harry Da Ponte and Mr. Harold B. Weston.

A thoroughly enjoyable evening resulted and at the same time a worthy project was materially assisted.

Refreshment followed at the conclusion of the series of games, which consisted of five.

Mrs. Seal and Mrs. Smith are thankful and appreciative of the liberal response to the cause and their efforts, in which they were so generously assisted by a hearty co-operation.

Must Repair and Paint

The Home Loan Bank corporation of the Government will not lend money on property in need of repair or paint unless this requirement is first met with. What an admirable suggestion. This might apply to banks and the many individuals who, until before the depression, loaned money privately on mortgage guarantee. Towns and cities deteriorate and values depreciate for lack of paint and repair. This condition of neglect casts a blight that is at once apparent to the stranger upon his advent to a town. It is hoped the government in the wisdom evinced in this instance will have set a precedent and new pace, one that will remain permanent and become just as absolute as the mortgage deed is necessary to complete a loan before the money is paid. It will prove a valuable lesson.

Kersanac-Benvenutti

A wedding of beauty and interest took place Thursday morning, November 9, at the church Our Lady of the Gulf, the contracting parties Mr. Joseph J. Kersanac of Biloxi, and Miss Catherine Virginia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony D. Benvenutti, of Bay St. Louis. Very Rev. Father A. J. Gmelch, pastor, performed the ceremony at a nuptial high mass.

The bride, a graduate of St. Joseph Academy, it was fitting that the choir was composed of students from her alma mater.

She was a vision of loveliness in her gown of white satin, with orange blossoms in her hair and a train veil falling over the long train of the dress. The bodice was embroidered with pearls and the sleeves puffed and tapering to a close fitting effect with the wrist, with covered buttons. Her gown fell in graceful effect and enhanced her native beauty and attractive personality.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Benvenutti, maid of honor, while Miss Mary Kersanac, of Biloxi, was bridesmaid. One was dressed in old lavender trimmed with a shade of blending pink; the other in pink trimmed with lavender. Both wore picture hats and accessories to match.

The flower girls were Lucille Benvenutti and Gloria Lovacevich, two charming little girls who sweetly carried out their parts to the beautiful and impressive ceremony of the church.

The groom is a well-known and successful business man at Biloxi, where the couple will reside in future, a resident of Bay St. Louis when a child. The romance dates back from childhood days.

The bride is the eldest daughter of our esteemed townspeople. Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Benvenutti, a young woman of charm and accomplishment. The groom is well worthy of the fair hand he has won in marriage.

A family dinner followed at the Benvenutti residence to which only members of the immediate family were present. During the evening a reception will be tendered to friends.

The couple will leave later in the evening for New Orleans, where they will spend a while before returning to their home in Biloxi.

LITVINOV FINALLY COMES.

BACK in the early days of the Russian Revolution Lenin appointed M. M. Litvinov, Soviet Ambassador to the United States. He was refused a visa and the Wilson Administration refused to recognize Russia. Three succeeding Republican administrations followed the Wilsonian policy.

Not long ago, however, President Roosevelt wrote President Kalinin suggesting that the sixteen years of non-intercourse be ended and suggested that the Soviet President designate representatives "to explore with me personally all questions outstanding between our countries," without binding either nation to any further course.

Finally, therefore, Mr. M. M. Litvinov will come to Washington to represent the Soviet Government, this time in response to an invitation from the American President, which in some measure may be a little personal satisfaction for the rejection he received sixteen years ago. The parley was made easier by the fact that Russia for the first time since the Soviet regime, agreed to discuss questions with another nation without requiring the other to recognize its own sovereignty.

THE ONE GREAT ISSUE.

Since the great deflation in the early part of 1920, when prices paid for farm products dropped faster than the prices of things sold to the farmer, there has existed a great disparity between the two sets of prices. It has all but broken the rank and file of our agriculturalists.

Since 1926, taken as the theoretical "normal," the price of products sold by the farmer has dropped 45.8 per cent, almost ten per cent more than the decline in the price of foods, which have declined, from 1926, 36.3 per cent. The next largest decline is found in chemicals and drugs, which have gone down 27.4 per cent.

Notice that 1926, taken as "normal," was a year in which the prices paid by farmers was appreciably higher than the prices received by farmers. This makes the farmer's disadvantage even more pronounced and should not be lost sight of in plans for future improvement.

Advertisers ought to appreciate that they pay for circulation; circulation without having is paid for by those who read a newspaper.

Not to be outdone Senator Long and Gov. Allen of Louisiana have replaced the sign bearing their names as builders of the bridge at Shreveport, taken down a few nights ago as a sort of reprisal by a number of adverse-minded citizens. The new sign bears larger letters and is of metal and riveted in position. At cost of tax-payers' money, of course. There is no excuse for destroying the original wooden "tablet" that suspended from atop of the structure, but the question rises was the Senator justified in his action and is it in keeping with good taste?

Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment by more than the thirty-six States necessary to cast their vote accordingly, is taken as a matter of fact, according to results of elections held Tuesday in six States. The result is taken as a matter of course, since the noble experiment proved utter failure, and the thrill and ecstasy that was expected as a result is lacking. The truth of the matter, the victory is dimmed by the fact that the repeal of the amendment is hailed as necessary to the former normal function of the general commerce and industry of the nation. Every now and then the people of a country seem to throw a monkey wrench into the cogs of the machinery that help to make the wheels go round.

The reason assigned why churches report falling off in attendance is the fact there is too much preaching, and, possibly less doing. Preaching is cheap, good, bad or indifferent. There is, according to the old story of the negro itinerant preacher "good preaching at good pay" and "rotten preaching at rotten pay." One must be possessed of a master mind, powers of oratory and learned gifted in the true sense, to engage the interest and rivet the attention of listeners Sunday after Sunday with the sameness of preaching, regardless of the attitude of the listener. Short articles are the kind read in newspapers. They are most sought for and carry conviction. We believe the same applies to preaching. Regardless of intent and good faith, it too frequently becomes repetition and irksome.

Under federal auspices, beer is legally sold in Mississippi. And this does not only apply to certain sections but generally. The source of revenue thus lost is considerable and adds to the necessity of adding heavily to the ad valorem. It seems we have taxed everything under the sun. Your piano, radio, victrola, frigidaire, typewriter, adding machine and not forgetting the automobile and gasoline necessary to propel it is assessed and taxed beyond endurance. Beer, however, escapes, because it is unlawful in Mississippi State to tax its sale. Beer is a beverage, non-intoxicating and carries no revenue. Ripley of Believe It or Not Fame, might find many subjects for his vast odditorium at home. Having taxed everything, the numerical sizes of families might next be taxed.

IN MEMORY OF OUR WAR DEAD.

WHEN the people of this nation first celebrated the Armistice in 1918, they hailed it as a day which removed the threat of hostile domination, believing that with the end of the World War the nations of the earth might live together in peace.

There are not many of us still of that opinion as the present day clash of interests throughout the world, coupled with the memory of recent militaristic manoeuvres, remind us that peace is an ideal that, apparently, lies far ahead of the human race.

However, as we approach an annual observation of the great day it might be well to pause long enough to ask ourselves the question: "Have we, in the United States, given real loyalty to the cause of international peace?"

Let the answer come straight, without too much bending and warping on account of national interests and preconceived ideas. Let us face the history of the fifteen years that have passed since the great war ended and see what has been the role of the United States in its relations with foreign governments and peoples.

It is not the purpose of this article to attempt any summary of that record, or to indicate any judgment upon its effect. Simply because thousands of American boys laid down their lives in the belief that, perhaps, they were participants in a great struggle that would end war, we call the thought into prominence again.

Some of the slain were from Hancock county. Their bodies rest in various parts over the county, some in St. Mary's and others in Cedar Rest, Bay St. Louis.

They, and their relatives and loved ones, were sustained during war days with the grand idea of peace for the ages. Their bodies they offered as sacrifices to the hope that the nations of the world will live in peace. Their death should obligate us to give serious thought to the possible acquisition of the triumph which they had in mind, and, in so doing, help us to realize that there is a part that each of us can play in the formation of the brotherhood of free peoples throughout the world, ready to live honorably and peacefully with all mankind.

So far as we are able to judge labor has more to gain by cooperating with the present recovery effort than it can possibly gain by a policy of force.

JOIN THE RED CROSS.

THE annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross gets underway in Hancock county this week and for nearly three weeks an intensive drive will be made throughout the United States to secure members in this great organization of peace, as well as war, service.

Chartered by Congress, the Red Cross, while not controlled by the government, acts as a semi-official government agency to do many things which should be done to relieve distress in disaster and prevent suffering in war. It is an agent for merciful acts and stands as a monument example of the interest of the people of the nation in the welfare and recovery of those who have been stricken.

Membership, affording participation in this great undertaking, costs only one dollar a year. It is a privilege for Americans to be able to cooperate in making up the millions whose small contributions amount to so much to those communities that are visited by natural catastrophes.

There is no need to eulogize the work of the Red Cross. Every sensible American understands its aims and knows what it intends to do, if possible. The idea behind this short article is merely to remind all of our readers to send in their dollar promptly when the Roll Call begins. In the event that no worker solicits your subscription, and you do not know where to send in a dollar promptly, send it to the Echo newspaper which will hand it to the proper officials and see that you get your membership card.

Bay St. Louis will grow bigger and better when the people here give up the idea that somebody else is going to settle in our midst and with a big factory create prosperity.

LOST A FORTUNE.

ONE of the books more widely read than any other is In His Steps, written by Rev. Charles N. Sheldon, telling the story of a preacher who tried to live as he believed Jesus Christ would have lived in modern times. The book has been translated into twenty-one languages and more than 25,000,000 copies of it have been sold.

However, the author of this widely read volume received only about $3,000 from his work. It was first printed in a church weekly which paid the author $275 for it. Later it was discovered that the copyright on the novel was defective and publishers everywhere printed it and distributed it, most of them without paying the author any royalties.

However, the author-minister makes no complaint, saying: "After all I had the fun of writing the book and no one can take that away from me."

In the midst of hard times the question is appropriate: What are the grown-ups in Bay St. Louis doing to see that the children of Bay St. Louis have a fair chance to develop physically, mentally and spiritually?

FOR REMOVAL OF POLES ALONG BEACH.

A CORRESPONDENT of The Sea Coast Echo writes to the effect that a long string of poles along the beach front in Waveland detracts from the beauty of the waterfront and suggests that it might be possible to have these removed further back on private property, that is, several hundred feet thru back yards. As is, the poles now run over private property, since riparian rights belong to private individuals. Therefore, there should be no argument against removal. Removal of pier and other stumps recently begun already serves as an improvement to the Bay St. Louis front.

MERELY THEORETICAL

By GEORGE E. SCHILLING
(For The Sea Coast Echo)

WHAT IS MONEY?

IF you know all about the theory of money you need not read this column, for you can write a better one yourself. If you do not you are probably due for just as much of a surprise as some of the college professors of political economy got last week. A great many people, with a great many votes, are demanding that the supply of money be increased, or that the dollar be cheapened, in the hope that they can get some of the extra money, and other people are very badly scared at the prospect. The farmers, in especial, insist that the government do something, either to manufacture more money, or else to cheapen the dollar so as to make prices higher. They think of money as something that only the Federal Government stamps, or prints.

The matter is, in fact, very much more complicated than that, so complicated that most people refuse to make any effort to understand it. Is a check money? It is possible that the key to the problem lies in the answer to that question. If you increase the amount of bank notes and decrease the amount of bank checks, have you really inflated at all?

You can buy anything you want with a check that your bank will honor as well as you can with government money, and the bank does not need the money to pay the check either, for most of its checks are merely balanced against other checks in such a way that a few dollars in gold or notes will settle balances on many hundreds in bank checks. Valid bank checks, then, have just as much effect on prices as money does. A demand for a quantity of Bay-Waveland real estate would raise prices on such property, and it would make not the least difference whether the buyer offered to pay in Federal Reserve bank notes, or in New York exchange. You can buy a thousand, or a million, bushels of wheat at the market whether you have enough cash in your pocket to pay for your noon lunch or not, provided a bank will accept your check for the amount of your purchase. As the professors phrase it, a valid check is just as much a "medium of exchange" as government money can be.

Until this year you could always exchange your bank notes, or your valid checks, for gold at the rate of about twenty dollars an ounce, provided you wanted the gold. Not having use for much gold, you did not often ask for it; but the gold was there, and was the "measure of value" of your printed, or engraved, paper and of your silver coin. It was like a yardstick that measured all of the other money and substitutes for money in the country. Gold is not an ideal measure, but, by the common opinion of all civilized peoples, it is the best that has ever been tried.

Now we have changed the yardstick, the measure, in order to make everything cost more, especially wheat and cotton. Twenty dollars will no longer buy nearly an ounce of gold, but only about two-thirds of an ounce. The price changes every day, by proclamation. That is supposed to produce about the same result as it would to declare that thirty or forty pounds shall be a bushel of wheat, instead of sixty pounds, or that ten or eleven ounces be a pound, or that anything that might be decided, from twenty to twenty-five inches, be a yard. The idea is that if a dollar be worth less gold, it will also be worth less wheat and cotton.

At least one of the complications that prevent this scheme from working as well as the farmers would like is that you cannot sell at a higher price unless somebody is willing and able to pay that higher price. Most bills are paid, not with money, but with checks. Cutting off the supply of checks may possibly reduce the "medium of exchange" to such a point that prices will actually fall. Inflation of the dollar may cause a worse deflation of credit than we are now suffering.

If checks were usually drawn against deposits of money that had been saved up and put in the bank for safe-keeping, this might not be so important. But what actually happens is something like this: A merchant who wants to buy a stock of goods for his winter trade, or for some other purpose, after explaining his plan and his wants, signs a note for a certain amount of money. The bank discounts the note, credits the merchant with the proceeds, and the merchant writes checks against the bank to make his purchases, or pay his employees. The bank has manufactured the money just as truly as does the United States mint, in so far as money is a medium of exchange.

Now, how much of this kind of purchasing power the bank will create depends on a number of things, all related to the prospect of getting the note paid in full. Ask the editor of this paper whether his bank will discount a note for a thousand dollars at eight per cent, provided you guarantee to pay back six or seven hundred dollars, depending on what the rate for the day happens to be. Ask any farmer whether he will lend you nine hundred eighty bushels of wheat if you will guarantee to pay him back in ninety days a thousand forty-pound bushels.

We probably have as much government money in this country as we

WISHES UNSIGHTLY POLES AND WIRES MOVED FROM BEACH

AN OPEN LETTER.

November 3, 1933.

To the Mayor and Members of the Council of the Town of Waveland, Mississippi.

Waveland, Mississippi.

Honorable Sirs: I have noted your splendid efforts towards beautification of the greatest of all the South's assets, the Mississippi Gulf Coast Beach front. You are to be complimented upon the many improvements which have been instituted in Waveland and your latest action in connection with lighting of the beach front will undoubtedly be lauded by everyone.

Your efforts to keep business off the beach front and to maintain a clear right of way for pedestrians and vehicle traffic and at the same time to maintain the aesthetic beauty of the beach is without a doubt a most praiseworthy achievement.

Having done so much to beautify the beach front and having expended so much money in an effort to make the beach front of Hancock County and especially of Waveland the beauty spot of the Mississippi Gulf Coast, it has occurred to me that there is still one stone to be turned, which I have every reason to believe that your Honorable Body will have the vision and the courage to turn. I refer to the unsightly and dangerous electric light and telephone poles, wires and guide lines which are erected along the beach front, sometimes on the property of the County and City and sometimes on the property of individual property owners. There is no reason why these unsightly and enormous poles could not be either removed entirely from the beach front and erected many hundred feet back of the beach, in which event I am certain that a right of way or the right to erect the poles could be secured without difficulty from the property owners so that the poles would be in the rear of their property instead of, as at present, marring the beauty of the beach front, or there could be installed an underground system or ornamental metal poles in keeping with the beauty of the newly installed electric lighting system.

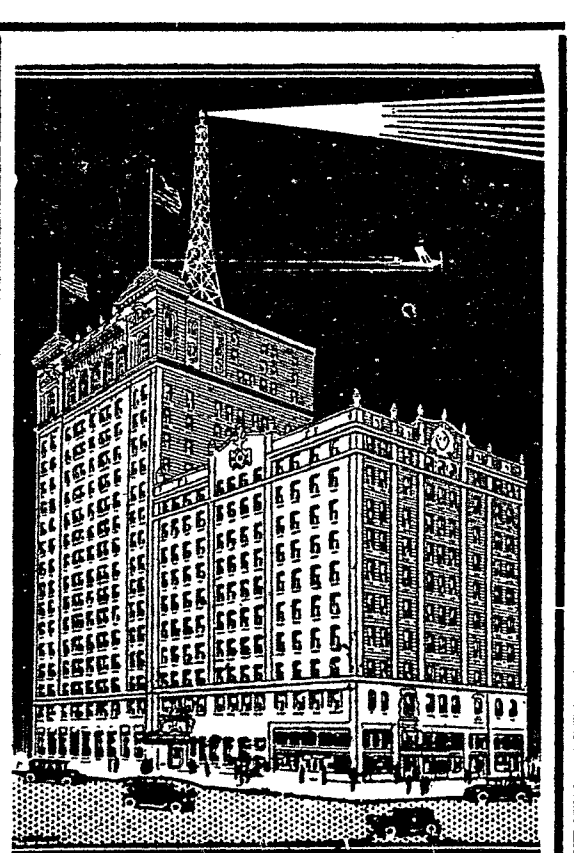

It is self-evident that no action will be taken by the owners of the electric light and telephone poles and wires unless forced to do so by a body of your standing. It is my understanding that at the present time there does not exist a franchise authorizing the Mississippi Power Company or others to erect and maintain these unsightly poles along the beach front, and if that information is correct, then the procedure should be a very simple one. At any rate, I feel certain that with the aid of your able Counsel, you will have no difficulty in finding ways and means of eliminating the presently existing unsightly condition that makes it impossible for either town, county or individual to harmonize the beautification of Waveland and especially its beach front.

Respectfully Yours,
S. SANFORD LEVY.

THE PASCAGOULA TOLL BRIDGE

(Editorial Gulfport Herald)

ONCE upon a time it was common to pay the expense of building and maintaining bridges along the highways, to charge tolls and have a tollgate keeper. In these days, however, when the Federal Government has met the States half way with vast appropriations to build a great network of highways and trunk lines to facilitate traffic of all kinds and to invite the people to know each other and the various sections of a vast country, it is changed. In such way, the policy saw, would the people become homogeneous and trade and intercommunication be furthered. Few toll bridges remain—some in the East, but not many.

The South had dirt roads. She seized the offer of the government to build hard roads. The advent of automobiles furnished an irresistible argument.

Finally the tourist trade increased and added life, spirit, population and money. Great trunkline roads, such as ran through other sections and tied States, people and sections together, became transcontinental. The South bid for them.

In the Deep South we finally secured the Old Spanish Trail, passing through, and of infinite value to Mississippi Coast Towns. Pascagoula, Ocean Springs, Biloxi, Gulfport, Long Beach, Pass Christian and Bay St. Louis are on this highway. This section was unsurprisingly favored with rivers and bays. Permanent, modern bridges became necessary—at Pascagoula, Biloxi, Bay St. Louis. The people built them. Of these only Pascagoula has a toll bridge—50 cents to pass.

The toll is a burden on and a discourager to traffic. It interferes with route selection, facile communication, that movement which all places desire and need.

If Jackson County would reduce the toll on the Pascagoula bridge from 50c to 25c for one way and 30c for round trip, eventually making it a free bridge, it would be a great contribution to travel and the welfare of the Mississippi Coast. It would encourage traffic and oblige stranger and neighbor alike. The resultant increased traffic would make the reduction in revenue to Jackson County small. Will not routes with free bridges—are they not already doing it?—divert traffic from the Old Spanish Trail?

May we expect Jackson County to do something about it?

Armistice, 1933

(For The Sea Coast Echo)

The hounds of hell are leashed at last.
Lord, fix their fetters firm and fast.
Where these have ranged, the fields are red
With mangled millions, wounded, dead.

Along the trenches, grim with gore,
The crashing cannon booms no more.
No handgrenade nor bomb is hurled.
Thank God, the battle-flags are furled.

This sudden silence, after years
Of din and tumult, wounds the ears;
And soldiers schooled to kill their kind,
With tears of gratitude, are blind.

Ten million throats in every tongue,
Which long their hymns of hate have sung,
Are thrilling now in sweet accord
With songs of peace unto the Lord.

That day of music and of mirth,
We hoped, had healed the wounds of earth.
Had cleansed our hearts of every hate
In every soul of every state.

But fifteen years have come and gone
And hymns of hate are sounding on;
And though the battlefields are fair,
The stench of war is in the air.

The League of Nations sits forlorn.
Each day, a hound of hell is born.
From year to year, we prate of peace
While arms and armaments increase.

Bowed down by debts that war has made,
Of solemn treaties still afraid,
We shudder at the thought of war,
But follow still the lead of Thor.

Lord, give us eyes with which to see
The trail of Christ of Galilee,
The path of peace, His feet have trod,
The only path to peace and God.

COLD WEATHER BRINGS DANGER BY TAKING CHANCES

Newspapers Tell of Many Lives Lost by Carelessness.

This is not a pleasant story to read; it is not an easy story to write. However, in the writing and reading of it, some lives in Hancock County might be saved during the next two or three months and this would be a fine record for any newspaper article.

With the arrival of cold weather, one is amazed to read of the numerous accounts of deaths from burns received by persons using gasoline or kerosene to start fires. It is no idle warning to call attention to the numerous deaths from this cause.

Without making an attempt to check up on all fatalities from this cause, one reader in a few days collected the following items: An old man, 73, in Minnesota, was fatally burned in a kerosene explosion in his home. In Illinois an old woman, 75, died when an oil stove exploded. In Cleveland, Ohio, a mother, 24 and her two small children, burned to death because she used kerosene to start a fire. In another large city a retired cabinet maker used gasoline for the same purpose and died.

In all of the instances cited, the deaths occurred because of carelessness on the part of the persons who were using a dangerous substance. They should have known better and probably, like the reader, they did but they took a chance and it was the last.

The same reader reported that one little girl, age 1, got hold of some matches, carelessly left where she could reach them, set fire to her clothes and was fatally burned. Another three-year-old girl finding a match, struck it and set fire to a candle which had been filled on the floor of her home and lost her life. Moreover, a baby, in a crib, managed to reach matches on a shelf, struck one of them setting fire to his bed clothes and was found burned to death.

These children were victims of carelessness of somebody who left matches where the little ones could get them. It is a very easy thing for adults to forget that the curiosity of little children will lead them to play with dangerous things. The child is not to be blamed but the parent or other careless adult regardless of their grief at the suffering and death which follows, as they know better and should foresee that such "accidents" are apt to occur.

Illustrating this one reads of a three-year-old boy, put to sleep on a bed, who found under the pillow a strange and interesting object. Reaching for it, the boy's hand was struck by an explosion and the baby's heart stopped beating when a bullet went through its body.

It is almost impossible to pick up a daily newspaper today without finding at least several deaths reported as a result of carelessness which should serve as a warning to all of us. It is frequently found that motorists go into their closed garages and operate automobiles in confined quarters, with the result that they are asphyxiated by carbon monoxide fumes. This is no unknown danger but is one that has been widely reported for years. Nevertheless, there are people living today who will be dead before spring comes because they insist on taking a chance. Some what similar is the death, reported from a large city, of a young man who suffered from fumes given out by a small stove in his closed automobile. He lighted it for warmth and went to sleep, never to awaken.

So far deaths from hunting have not been mentioned but there is always a crop of these fatalities. Sometimes a hunter is killed because somebody takes him for a deer or fired when the bushes moved. A case of this kind is reported from the state of Washington. There will be many others in other states this winter. Akin to these accidents are those caused by the careless handling of firearms, as illustrated by the Minnesota farmer recently killed when a gun discharged as he crawled thru a wire fence. Other hunters will die in the next few months because they insist upon handling a gun by the barrel.

Farmers have known for years that bulls are dangerous and that no matter how well behaved a bull may have been, he is apt at any time to charge and seriously, if not fatally, wound anyone who ventures in his path. Nearly every farmer and livestock man in this county has read of such "accidents" and yet any number of them take chances with bulls. In South Dakota last week, one farmer took his last gamble and the bull won. His fate is regrettable but it should serve as a warning to everybody. However, human nature being what it is, his death will have little effect and there will be others to suffer the same sudden end in various sections of the country.

As stated in the first paragraph of this article, this is not a pleasant story and it is not an attempt to cover many other dangers that people are inclined to treat lightly. However, with the advent of cold weather and the hunting season, it might be well for all of us to realize that gasoline and kerosene should not be used to start fires; that matches and firearms are dangerous; and that when we come to a field in which there is a bull, it will be wiser to go the long way and not attempt a short cut.

Made Good.

"I hear Bill had an accident." "Yes, some one gave him a pet alligator and told him it would eat off his hand." "Well?" "It did."

WILL T. McDONALD AND JUDGE THOMPSON SURVIVING MEMBERS

Two Members Witness 1890 Convention Anniversary.

Allowe'en ghosts of the long-ago continued to ride their broomsticks today in the memories of two Mississippians identified with an epoch in state history.

Anniversary of the adoption of the constitution of 1890 finds only two of the original 137 members of that historic convention alive—Judge R. H. Thompson, Jackson, and Judge Will T. McDonald, now practicing law at Memphis.

Judge Thompson, who recently announced in The Clarion-Ledger his opposition to Governor Conner's plans for immediate revision of the document that he helped frame 43 years ago today, continues the practice of law in Jackson at the age of 86, steeped in honors as "the nestor of the Mississippi bar."

Memories today turn back to conditions quite unlike anything Mississippi has known since—to the reconstruction period in which statesmen were confronted with the necessity of perfecting a constitution that would assure white domination and throw out the evils of political racketeering such as fostered under years of carpetbag rule.

In 1888 the legislature passed a bill providing for an election by which the people would decide if they wanted their constitution revised.

Governor Lowry vetoed the bill. United States Senator J. Z. George made a stump tour of the state in favor of the convention. United States Senator E. C. Walthall opposed the convention.

Then a new legislature was elected. "When it assembled," according to the late Robert E. Wilson, secretary of the constitutional convention of 1890, "it was soon evident that the people favored calling the convention and had elected a legislature that would call one."

Governor John Stone, in addressing the assembly, laid stress on this thought: "Laying aside all personal preferences and prejudices, as well as local interest, the subject should be discussed and determined in such a manner as will promote the public welfare and the unity of those entrusted with our civilization."

A bill calling for a constitutional convention was adopted in the house soon after it convened at the 1890 session. Under this bill the election was to be held July 29, and the assembly would be held August 12, one delegate for each member of the house and florid districts and 14 from the state at large, two from each congressional district but no two from the same county.

The bill passed the house by a vote of 62 to 41, and in the senate the majority was 22 to 12. Governor Stone signed the bill February 5.

The convention remained in session until November 1. Even then the constitution was not unanimously adopted. The vote was 104 for, eight against and 21 absent and not voting.

One member elected to the convention never sat in at a session. N. D. Guerry, Lowmes county, became ill before the convention and died while it was in session.

Judge Thompson, who was a floater delegate representing Lincoln and Jefferson counties, was born on a farm in Copiah county in 1847. He entered the Confederate service at the age of 16. His grandfather had served in the war of 1812 under Old Hickory. After the war for southern independence, Judge Thompson resumed his schooling, earning an A. B. degree from the University of Mississippi in 1869. From 1869 to 1870 he attended the law school at the university, but did not finish for the reason that the law course was abolished. He studied under L. Q. C. Lamar at the university. But his law education did not stop; he read law books for several years before taking up practice at Brookhaven in 1871. In 1893 his old alma mater recognized his plucky spirit by awarding him an honorary degree of L. L. D.

Judge Thompson was elected to the state senate from the third district in 1876, serving until 1890 as floater senator from Lincoln, Lawrence and Pike counties. In 1890 he was appointed by Governor John Stone on the commission to prepare the annotated code of 1890, and was elected chairman of that commission. He also served on the commission to construct the New Capitol. In 1910 he declined Governor A. H. Longino's offer to appoint him to the supreme bench. He has served as president of the board of the state department of archives and history since 1917.

Will Tate McDonald was born October 19, 1862 in Tipton county. He represented Benton county in the constitutional convention.

Judge McDonald completed his law course at the University of Mississippi in 1882. In 1886 he was a floater representative from Benton and Tipton counties.

He served as United States post office inspector from 1887 to 1889. He served in the state senate in 1896 and 1898. He was circuit judge in the second judicial district from 1903 to 1906, and returned to the state senate in 1907 from the first senatorial district.

Double Satisfaction.

RED CROSS CLOTHES THE NATION'S NEEDY

Flour, Bread, Clothing Reach Into More Than Five Million Homes of Jobless

The greatest task ever undertaken by a relief agency in the history of private charity is drawing to a close with the final distribution of cotton clothing to more than five million families by the American Red Cross.

At the direction of the Congress, beginning eighteen months ago, the Red Cross undertook to convert the wheat and cotton surpluses of the Farm Board into food and clothing for the unemployed and needy. In the consequent operation, the relief agency entered upon a commercial enterprise greater than any single commercial firm has ever undertaken in the same period of time.

In the ensuing months the Red Cross converted 85,000,000 bushels of wheat into flour and bread and gave it to 5,803,000 families. The distribution was through 3,700 Red Cross chapters and hundreds of other charitable agencies. During the severe northwestern drought of 1931 the Red Cross also gave wheat in the form of food for livestock to 184,138 families.

The clothing—dresses, underwear, overalls, jumpers, sweaters and stockings for men, women and children, and even blankets and comforters—was distributed to 5,465,410 families. More than 54,000,000 yards of cotton cloth and 92,000,000 yards of cotton cloth were given to the needy. This clothing came from 844,000 bales of cotton.

The wheat distribution was concluded in June, 1933, and final distribution of cotton clothing is occurring in the fall months.

In handling these tasks voted to it by Congress, the Red Cross will expend from its own treasury $735,000. At the same time the organization carried on its regular program of disaster relief, of service to the veterans of all wars, of educational and welfare work through the Junior Red Cross; of health education and public health nursing and of life saving and first aid.

Funds for this work come from the membership roll call the Red Cross chapters conduct from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, when every one is invited to join the Red Cross and aid in this vital relief work.

THE ECHO'S COOKING CLASS

WITH the coming of the fall comes the crimson cranberry. It is a welcome fruit, easy to prepare in a great variety of dishes—from jelly to ices. The delicious flavor of the cranberry seems to be just what we need as an accompaniment to the holiday fowl, pork and mutton.

Cranberry Relish
1 large orange.
3-4 cup granulated sugar.
Wash and grind cranberries, using the fine blade. Grate rind of orange then put the rest of the orange thru the grinder. Combine cranberries, grated orange rind and orange pulp with sugar and let stand in refrigerator 24 hours to ripen. This mixture is excellent served as a relish with fowl or meat. Store tightly covered, in refrigerator.

Cranberry Jelly
Look over and wash 1 quart firm cranberries. Put them into a saucepan with 2-3 cup boiling water. Boil until soft and mash through a sieve. To the pulp and juice, add 2 cups sugar. Stir together and let come to a boil. Pour into jelly glasses. A new way of serving cranberry is—Turn out a glass of cranberry jelly, cut it crosswise into slices, 1-2 inch slices. Then cut each slice into circles, using a cutter about 1-1/4 inches in diameter. Pile the circles one on top of the other and serve.

Cranberry Salad.
Dissolve 2 tablespoons gelatin in ¼ cup cold water. Cook 1 quart berries into the gelatin, stir and let cool. Then add ½ cup diced celery, slightly salted. Pour into individual ring molds. Allow to set in refrigerator. Seed and cut 2 cups white grapes in halves. Chill. At serving time, turn lettuce on individual salad plates. Turn a circle of the red salad in the lettuce. Fill the center with the grapes. Serve with mayonnaise.

Cranberry Cake Dessert.
Bake your favorite sponge cake in a shallow pan and cut in rounds or squares 4 inches in diameter. Split these and put together with the following filling:
Boil 1 cup of sugar with 1-4 cup of water to the thread stage. Then pour the hot syrup over the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs and beat until cold. Gradually fold in 1 cup of crushed cranberries. Serve the cake, passing the remainder of the filling to be used as a sauce.

Cranberry Ice.
Cook 1 quart of cranberries with 1 pint of water until berries are soft. Strain and add 1 pound of sugar and the juice of 1 orange and 1 lemon. Freeze. This may be served in tall sherbert glasses as an accompaniment to the meat course or as a dessert.

SONS OF FILM FAMOUS FATHERS START CAREERS

Their Names Known World Over; Faces Seen First Time in Movies in "This Day and Age"

Like father like son.

In the picture are a group of bright-looking youngsters, all with some experienced before the camera, yet all sufficiently new to the movies to have unfamiliar faces. However, their names are known throughout the movie world, each being the son of a famous film personage.

Film Famous Names.

In the group are Wallace Reid, Jr., Erich von Stroheim, Jr., Bryant Washburn, Jr., Carlyle Blackwell, Jr., Fred Kohler, Jr., Frank Tinney, Jr., and Neal Hart, Jr. The famous fathers of all once stood high on the film ladder, three of them having worked for DeMille in his earlier pictures.

Each of these youths, with the exception to one, hopes to fill a position like his father once held in the pictures. The exception is Wally Reid, Jr. Wally wants to become an aeronautical engineer and works in pictures occasionally only to earn sufficient money to carry on his studies.

Needing a group of youths to portray high school boys in his new picture, DeMille decided to collect the sons of as many famous film men as possible. Seven were recruited, all having had previous experience before the cameras. Some have worked only as extras but three, Reid, Washburn and Kohler, have played minor speaking roles. In addition, young Tinney has worked on the stage with his father.

Header for Stardom.

"In my opinion, each of these youths has a chance to really get somewhere in the picture business," DeMille declares. "I knew all of their fathers, some quite intimately, and feel there is nothing they would appreciate more than to have me give their sons a boost."

A Foggy Vision.
"What is the weather like today?" "I can't see it for mist."

Overcome Pains this better way

WOMEN who get into a weak, run-down condition can hardly expect to be free from troublesome "small symptoms."

Where the trouble is due to weakness, Cardui helps women to get stronger and thus makes it easier for nature to take its orderly course. Painful, nagging, nervous disorders disappear as nourishment of the body is improved.

Instead of depending on temporary pain pills during the time of suffering, take Cardui to build up your resistance to womanly ailments.

WITH THE MOVIES AND FILM FOLKS
HOLLYWOOD has become a veritable Broadway, having imported numbers of stage stars from that city to play leading roles in the cinemas. Among the writers, actors and producers from Broadway which Fox has secured are George White, Lew Brown, Jay Gorney, Buddy DeSylva, Joe Cook, Did Silvers, Dick Whitney, Ray Henderson, Preston Sturges, Sidney Clare and Frederick Hollander. Among the players are Henrietta Crosman, Rosemary Ames, Florence Desmond and Claire Trevor, with dozens of show girls and minor players.

Among the stars of Broadway which have deserted the bright lights temporarily or permanently to work for Twentieth Century are Blossom Seeley, Russ Columbo, Texas Guinan, Paul Kelly, Russell Markert, Tullio Carminati, Janet Beecher, Helen Westley, Mack Gordon, Harry Revel, Al Dubin, Harry Warren, Jackie Kelly, Judith Wood, Andrew Tombs, Paul Harvey, Judith Anderson, Chick Chandler, Morgan Conway and others.

RKO has its share with Francis Lederer, Kenneth MacGowan, Adele Thomas, Sarah Haden, Louise Mason, Buelah Bondi, Robert Benchley, Fred Astaire, Lenore Ulric, Thelma White and Howard Spellman.

Most of the leading players for Warner Brothers came from the theatrical field. Prominent among these are Ruth Chatterton, Barbara Stanwyck, Ruby Keeler, Leslie Howard, Edward G. Robinson, Warren MacMahon, Guy Kibbee, William Keighley and Busby Berkeley.

After a two weeks' conference at a desert resort, spent in preparing a stronger story than the original presented, Warner is rushing the production of "Wonderbar," in which Al Jolson will have the lead, supported by Ann Dvorak, Kay Francis, Dick Powell and Ricardo Cortez.

Following the completion of "I am Suzanne," by Lillian Harvey, she will begin work immediately on her fourth American picture, "The Lottery Lover."

Plans have been definitely completed for the production of "Lives of a Bengal Lancer," by Paramount with Gary Cooper, Richard Arlen, Cary Grant and Sir Guy Standing among the principals.

Eddie Cantor's newest film, "Roman Scandals," has been finished at Samuel Goldwyn lot and will probably be released early in December. With Cantor, appear Ruth Etting, Gloria Stuart, David Manners, Verree Aasdale and Edward Arnold.

Charles Ruggie's next, "Goodbye Love," is not as serious as it sounds, if one can believe RKO studio reports.

Janet Gaynor is at work on "House of Connelly," which is being produced at the Fox studio. In the cast with her are such stars as Lionel Barrymore, Henrietta Crosman, Stepin Fetchet, Robert Young, Mona Barry and others.

Since Elissa Landi broke off relations with Fox because she didn't want to play certain roles assigned her, she has been swamped with offers. She is to appear opposite Francis Lederer in "Man of Two Worlds," and will then go to Columbia for the lead in "Night Bus," opposite Clark Gable.

Ruth Chatterton will next be seen in "Journal of Crime," to be directed by George Pabst, who recently arrived in this country, from Germany, where he directed "Lulu" and other German successes.

MGM has purchased film rights to Sir James Barrie's play, "What Every Woman Knows," as a vehicle for Helen Hayes, evidently not taking her refusal to return to Hollywood seriously.

OF SOCIAL INTEREST

(By Our Society Editor)

"SURPRISE PARTY" FOR MR. AND MRS. AUGUSTE CARRERE, WAVELAND.

Recently arrived from Chicago and planning to make their home in the Bay-Waveland District for an indefinite period, Mr. and Mrs. Auguste Carrere were welcomed Saturday evening by some thirty friends who had previously assembled and tendered them a "surprise party," at their home at No. 308 Waveland Beach Boulevard, near Nicholson avenue.

The party, as planned, was a complete surprise. The occasion was one that well served to welcome them into the community.

Adequate refreshment was provided for by the "invading party" and there seemed to be nothing lacking, so well planned to the very smallest detail was the affair.

Although taken by complete surprise, Mr. and Mrs. Carrere were equal to the occasion. Caught unaware as it were, they made the best of the situation and immediately fell into the spirit of the evening and their enjoyment was co-equal with that of their visitors. Having visited here formerly and well known they were glad to again meet their friends and to spend an evening in so much enjoyment.

High scorers for the evening were Mrs. Chas. G. Moreau, Mrs. Hugh P. Burbank and "out" west to Mr. E. G. Ferchaud. Participating in this delightful and memorable occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Leo W. Seal, Jr. and Mrs. Alvah P. Smith, Mrs. S. A. Power, Mrs. H. C. Glover, Mrs. Hugh P. Burbank, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Rea, Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Jaubert, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Green, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. James A. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Ferchaud, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Carrere, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Moreau, Miss Margaret Green, Mr. Otto Briede, Mr. Waldo Otis.

RECEIVES DIPLOMAS TO TEACH CULBERTSON CONTRACT BRIDGE.

Mrs. Leo E. Kenney, who teaches contract bridge to various and many classes from time to time recently received her diploma from the Culbertson Institute, duly dated and signed by Ely Culbertson, and her friends are equally as proud of her accomplishment, the diploma issued from the Culbertson studios at New York City.

This diploma testifies to the fact Mrs. Kenney pursued the full course in contract bridge under a personal teacher, has passed the various rigid examinations and given such evidence that she is not only a finished student but a qualified teacher.

Mrs. Kenney's classes are formed in Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Pass Christian. One may begin at any time.

MRS. LEO E. KENNEY'S THURSDAY AFTERNOON CONTRACT PRACTICE.

Increasing popularity stamps Mrs. Leo E. Kenney's Thursday afternoon contract bridge practice each and every week at Hotel Weston parlor. Pupils and others are asked to assemble every Wednesday afternoon and join in the fashionable and fascinating card game that is sweeping the smart circles of the country.

Last Thursday was another of the interesting events of the kind and Mrs. Kenney plans to continue this form of entertainment and practice throughout the winter. Mrs. Kenney will welcome beginners and others. The party increases in popularity each week.

MR. EDWIN H. GRACE WEDS MISS DOROTHEA WUERPAL AT NEW ORLEANS.

Mr. Edwin H. Grace, son of Mr. John D. Grace, well-known New Orleans and Bay-Waveland resident, a successful attorney at New Orleans and former assistant United States attorney in charge of prohibition, was married in that city Tuesday morning to Miss Dorothea Wuerpel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Otis Allen.

Although the wedding was quietly celebrated, it was one of general interest, due to the fact of the social prominence of both contracting parties. Taking place at the Holy Name of Jesus church in St. Charles avenue, only members of the two families and intimate friends were present. Rev. Father Albert S. Biever, S. J. celebrated at the nuptial mass.

Mr. Grace is a son of John D. Grace, prominent admiralty attorney, and practices law in his office. His brother, Milton Grace, was his best man. The bride had her sister, Mrs. Frank Rainold, the former Althea Wuerpel as her matron of honor.

The groom is a member of the Phi Delta fraternity, graduate of Tulane university and exceedingly popular in both business and professional circles as well as social.

The name of Attorney Lucien M. Gex is generally and prominently mentioned as a probable candidate for representative from Hancock county to the next session of the Legislature and the announcement is meeting with favorable response. Mr. Gex has been prevailed upon to run and does not deny that he will be a probable candidate.

Miss C. Juliette McWilliams of Dallas, Texas, is now located at 202 Main street having rented apartments at Miss Louise Armstrong. Miss McWilliams is a vocal instructor of long experience and has come to Bay St. Louis where she has opened her studio at the above named address. Many of her pupils appearing before the public have made an outstanding success which credit is due Miss McWilliams.
